Rajiv promises political talks on future of Punjab

SAFAR 12-13, 1409 AH

JULLUNDUR, India, Sept 21, (Reuter): Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, making his first visit in three years to violence-torn Punjab, promised today to hold political talks on the future of the north Indian state.

"I will call all political parties for discussions on the Punjab problem to counter terrorism and speed up development," he told members of his Congress (1)

Rajiv said those talks would not include Sikh militants fighting a bloody campaign for an independent homeland they call Khalistan (land of the pure) in which over 1.900 people have been killed this year

Swept Security was extraordinarily tight during Rajiv's one-day visit, with thousands of paramilitary police and national security commandos drafted in to bolster forces already in Pun-

A senior police officer said the area where Rajiv addressed his party members had been swept for mines before the event. "Nothing at all has been left to chance. We are prepared for every eventuality," he said.

Speaking during a violent thunderstorm, Rajiv said some political power in Punjab, now held by New Delhi which rules ned to village councils.

The traditional power structure had broken down in the fiveyear Sikh separatist campaign, but Rajiv pledged the Congress Party would "return power to the people" at village level.

The Indian government had helped smooth the way for Rajiv's visit by ordering 138 Sikh militants freed from detention.

One official said the order was a show of goodwill by the government to free some of the militants held since early 1985.

They have been held since the 1984 security operation following the Indian Army's assault on the Sikhs' holiest shrine, the Golden Temple in Amritsar. Their release fulfills a long-standing Sikh demand.

The assault to crush extremists taking refuge in the temple led four months later to the assassination of Rajiv's mother, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

In May this year, a 10-day siege of the temple resulted the deaths of at least 30 people and ended with the surrender of more than 150 militants.

By releasing 138 of the 326 militants being held in the Jodhpur central jail in Rajasthan state, Rajiv appeared to be offering an olive branch to Sikhs, said a Punjabi political analyst.

Baby premature

Benazir gives birth to a son

KARACHI, Sept 21, (Agencies): Opposition leader Benazir Bhutto gave birth to a son today, her first child since her marriage to a wealthy local businessman last year, her family announced.

It said the baby was delivered by Caesarean section four to five weeks prematurely at 9:30 am (0430 GMT) at a public hospital in Karachi. Hospital sources said Benazir, 35, was admitted last night and that both the mother and child were in good health. Grandson

"God has blessed our family with the first grandson of shaheed Zulfikar Ali Bhutto to be born in our country." Benazir's mother, Begum Nusrat Bhutto, said in a statement.

She told reporters at the hospital the baby weighed seven pounds (3.2 kg), but offered no explanation as to why the child was premature. National Assembly elections are scheduled for Nov 16 in

Moscow declares emergency in Nagorno-Karabakh

MOSCOW, Sept 21, (Reuter): Soviet authorities declared a state of emergency in the Transcaucasian enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh today, following renewed violence between Armenians and Azerbaijanis in the disputed territory.

The official news agency Tass said Kremlin envoy Andrei Volsky announced the new measures in a television and radio address.

Volsky was charged in July with the task of restoring order to the southern Soviet Republics of Armenia and Azerbaijan after fir a months of ethnic unrest.

Measures

"With regard to the complex situation, a state of emergency has been declared in Stepanakert and Agdam region and a curfew imposed," Tass said. "All necessary measures are being taken to ensure calm and guarantee the safety of the population."

Stepanakert is the regional capital of Nagorno-Karabakh. which is part of the Republic of Azerbaijan but is predominantly populated by Armenians. Agdam, also in Azerbaijan, lies just outside Nagorno-Larabakh. Clashes were reported there soon after the start of the unrest in February.

Tass said the new measures followed further violence between Armenians and Azerbaijanis. Houses and cars were set on fire last night and gunfire was heard. It said there had been no casualties.

As the Soviet news media maintained a virtual black-out on developments in the region, officials in Moscow announced that Armenia had again been sealed off to the foreign press.

The Soviet Transcaucasian Republic was reopened earlier this month after a six-month closure to foreign reporters. Azerbaijan, where 32 people died in anti-Armenian clashes in February, was also reopened briefly before being sealed again. In Yerevan, the Armenian capital, a spokeswoman for the party newspaper Kommunist said half of the city's enterprises had been closed by workers who walked out after the latest round of bloodshed in the Nagorno-Karabakh dispute.

Comedian Roy Kinnear dies

LONDON, Sept 21, (Reuter): Actor Roy Kinnear, whose muddled manner kept him in the first rank of British comedy since the early 1960s, has died after a riding accident in Spain. He was 54.

A spokesman for his wife said he was thrown from a horse near Madrid on Monday while filming The Last Return of the Four Musketeers with co-star Michael York and Oliver Reed.

York rushed him to hospital but he died 24 hours later from head injuries. Kinnear was in the vanguard of British television political satire in the early 1960s, lampooning establishment figures in a controversial series called That Was the Week that Was."

The programme spawned a tradition that led to such successes as Monty Python's Flying Circus.

Fat and balding, Kinnear became a familiar figure on screen and stage after his original television success.

In 1967 he joined the Royal Shakespeare Company, but he was better known for his appearances in West End Revues and films such as The Knack.

Somalia ignores plea to end torture: Amnesty

LONDON, Sept 21, (Reuter): Amnesty International said today thousands in Somalia are being persecuted and the government has ignored persistent calls to halt torture and execution of its opponents.

A report by the London-based human rights organisation said thousands of Somalis are being systematically tortured, jailed without trial and executed by security forces for suspected opposition to the country's military government.

It said many of those arrested — some as young as 12 years old — were jailed for criticising the government.

Amnesty said it had been receiving reports of torture in Somalia since the present government came to power in a 1969 coup but the reports had increased since 1980.

The human rights violations documented in this report have often been brought to the attention of the Somali government. Amnesty International has repeatedly called on it to end these grave violations ... but the appeals have largely gone unanswered," the report said.

Amnesty said the Mogadishu government had accused it of interfering in its internal affairs. ANKARA, Sept 21, (AP): The Foreign Ministry announced today that a group of 1,000 Kurdish refugees will return to their Iraqi homeland beginning tomorrow. Ministry spokesman Inal Batu

Middle East issues.

An official French spokesman in Paris on Tuesday described the Kuwaiti-French summit talks as important due to the deep friendly relations between the two countries and because the Amir is chairman of the current session of the Organisation of Islamic Conference.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said today that HH and the accompanying delegation will be received at Orly airport by Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Roland Dumas.

He added that HH will leave the airport immediately to go to the Elysee Palace where Mitterrand will host a working luncheon in his honour. In the evening, HH will be the 46-member Organisation of Islamic Conference, will deliver a historic address before the UN assembly on Wednesday.

The speech will relay the views of at least one-fifth of the world population on global issues.

Araband world leaders lauded the Amir's statesmanship at the international level, and his insistence on a role for the Islamic world and its organisation in defusing global tensions and conflicts.

The Amir has also called for restoring world peace to clear the way for focusing on world economic problems, particularly the wide gap between developed and underdeveloped countries. The optimal investment of resources, upgrading of development plans to end famine and confront recurring natural disasters are also prime concerns.

After he was elected chairman of the Fifth Islamic Summit in Kuwait in January 1987, HH the Amir defined the OIC role at the international level.

The most prominent aspect of this role is to persist in supporting the human unity principle and bringing up new generations characterised by neither superiority nor submission."

HH also called on the superpowers to agree on a formula that guarantees their security, but not at the expense of other states. This would divert heavy armament costs to more fruitful human plans, he pointed out.

Kuwait, represented by HH the Amir, adopted a unique procedure for ensuring the Islamic world's participation in solving world issues. The Amir urged the bureau of the 5th Islamic Summit Conference and heads of standing committees to meet in Kuwait to "bolster ties, intensify consultations on comprehensive Islamic issues, reactivate and co-ordinate the tasks of bodies entrusted with the follow-up of summit resolu-and international organisations. On Aug 26, 1987 — "Namibia Day" - Kuwait's permanent representative to the UN. Mohammed Abulhassan read a message on behalf of HH the Amir and chairman of the OIC before the UN Council. In the message HH hailed the people of Namibia and the SWAPO organisation leading its struggle. He also called for granting Namibians the right to their territories and assisting them to achieve independence.

Support
On the UN Day on Oct 24,
1987, HH the Amir voiced full support to the international organisation. He urged the UN to adhere to its noble principles embodied in its charter.

HH said he hoped that the organisation would remain "a living symbol for rights, freedom, security and peace the world over, thus securing a better world ruled by reason and logic, where everyone would enjoy progress and welfare under the predominance of law and jus-

The Gulf war, the Afghan problem and disarmament issues witnessed remarkable progress towards a solution. They were the centre of concern to the OIC.

The support for the ongoing popular Palestinian uprising within Arab, Islamic and international arenas, conform with OIC's earlier support to the Palestinian problem.

The OIC stances on other problems still endangering world peace and security were based on the human principles and values championed by the UN. Views

These include renouncing all forms of colonisation, slavery and racial discrimination, and supporting the right of people to independence and self-determination as well as halting the arms race, eliminating nuclear weapons, liquidating hotheds of conflict and ending disparity in trade and economic ties between developed and developing coun-

The OIC has also voiced support for the UN role, respected its resolutions and adhered to its principles.

The chairman of the Fifth Islamic Summit will convey the views of Islamic states to the world at large from the UN forum. The UN is regaining confidence and trust after its successful mediation in the Gulf war, Afghanistan, Angola and other areas. This bolsters the call for human unity, and enhances the aspirations for a better world, as said by HH in his address before the Fifth Islamic Summit Conference, rightly identified as the Islamic Solidarity Summit.

'Under Pure Skies'

KUWAIT'S Minister of Information Sheikh Jaber Mubarak Al Hamad Al Sabah will open an exhibition of 19th century photographs of the Middle East on Saturday, Sept 24, at the Kuwait National Museum.

Entitled "Under Pure Skies", t will display a collection of Middle Eastern photographs taken by amateurs and hobbyists during the 19th century.

The photographs have been loaned to the Kuwait National Museum by the International Museum of Photography at George Eastman House in Rochester, New York, The American museum is said to be the major research facility for the study of photography. Its Middle East collection has been a primary source of study for photographers, historians, theologians and other students of the region.

The exhibition will be open to public from Sunday, Sept 25, during museum opening hours.

The Amir has created history

TODAY begins the trip of HH the Amir to the international arena where people of the world are struggling for their rights and the right to live in peace.

This trip of the Amir of Kuwait, Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed, adds a new feature to the Kuwaiti diplomacy, planned by Sheikh Jaber himself soon after assuming

The world has known Kuwaiti diplomacy as a principled diplomacy despite the dangers and risks faced by this diplomacy and its designer.

Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed goes to the United Nations carrying with him Islamic thinking and philosophy, and with him go the hearts of one billion Muslims believing in his faith and convictions. Sheikh Jaber is carrying with him the philosophy of the entire Islamic nation — Arabs and non-Arabs.

Thus, he is heading to the UN not only as the Amir of the State of Kuwait, but is making the file of the Islamic nation his file and the talk of the Islamic nation his talk. When Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed carries the file of this nation, its image will certainly be different from the distorted version presented by others who are disturbed by any Islamic revival and would do whatever they can to distort the reputation and image of Islamic thought and the nation.

We, on the Arab and Gulf level will closely follow the trip of this man of principles to the United Nations, and will certainly remember that he is a Muslim, an Arab from the Gulf and the son of Kuwait.

Kuwait will undoubtedly be very proud of this visit and any of its achievements, as we may have to wait for a very long time before this opportunity of heading the OIC is

The Arab world has known Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed as a man of deeds and logic, and a man of true Arab

The Islamic world has known Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed as a man practising true Islamic principles, who never held back on what he believed to be true and right.

We in Kuwait will be very proud of this trip, especially because Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed is the man undertaking. it. Our generation is well aware of the fact that men sometimes create history for their nations. Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmed created this for his country, and the Islamic nation may now benefit from one of its sons.

Dukakis has no campaign debts

By Hillary Chura

WASHINGTON. Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis has something Walter Mondale lacked when the Minnesota senator ran for president: money.

Neither Dukakis nor the Democratic National Committee (DNC) will enter the November election with substantial campaign debts, as was the case

This election cycle, the DNC has successfully raised $16.8 million the first time since 1974, when Congress imposed a ceiling on how much a presidential candidate can spend per election. that the Democrats have been able to raise that amount.

One of the chief reasons for the Dukakis campaign's successful fund raising is a perception among big donors that Dukakis can win in November. Eli Broad, the chairman of a

Los Angeles-based home-building company, for example, did not contribute much to the Democratic Party when Mon-dale ran for president in 1984. "I didn't give to Senator Mondale's campaign because I did not have strong feelings that he could make a difference," Broad

Recently, however, Broad forked over $100,000 to a DNC nonfederal" account 'I would not have donated to a losing campaign," he says. Broad is not alone. In June and July, 17 other groups and individuals donated $100,000 to various DNC accounts.

Donations Donations to such "nonfederal" accounts -- which are administered by state and local party affiliates - do not violate federal law, according to Karen Finucan, a spokeswoman for the Federal Election Commission.

There is a federal limit of $1,000 on donations by individuals to presidential cam-aigns and a $20,000 limit on onations to the party national vamittees. People who want to give more n those limits may donate to nonfederal accounts, which not subject to the limitations ne Federal Election Cam-ings vary from state to state. A party committee, Ms Finucan explains, may not give money directly for a candidate's campaign purposes, but it may donate up to $5,000 to a "compliance" fund and purchase up to $8.3 million worth of so-called co-ordinated expenditures, such as air time, for the candidate.

Richard Scammon, director of the Elections Research Centre, explains the shift by noting, "A lot of people who have the potential for making substantial contributions get enthusiastic when they feel their party's presiden-tial candidate has a chance of winning."
"If they feel he has little chance, they'll give to his campaign, but instead of giving $10,000 they'll give $1,000," says Scammon. "They may well put more money into their party's Senate or House campaign.

This influx of funds has freed Dukakis from the chore of postprimary fund-raising.

According to Mike Berman, former "Mondale for President" treasurer, the Dukakis campaign hit its fund-raising ceiling in May. Going into the 1984 Democratic National Convention, the Mondale campaign and the DNC had a cumulative debt of approximately $9 million. The Mondale campaign continued to raise money into December to pay off its debt.

Peter Kelly, DNC treasurer in 1980 and its national finance chairman in 1984, says "One reason the Dukakis campaign is doing better (financially) is because of how well Bob Farmer organized fund-raising during the primaries."

Farmer, the Democratic Victory Fund co-ordinator, organized the National Finance Committee, whose members each pledged to raise $10,000 for the Dukakis primary campaign, and the similar Victory Fund, each of whose members has pledged to raise $100,000 on behalf of the

SIR: "A Truly Civilized Way To Fly" runs the bold legend in Gulf Air's summer advertising campaign, a carefully conceived and meticulously presented effort, containing other laudable qualities such as balance, control, brevity and

Unfortunately the influence exercised by the company over their media image seems to wane to virtual non-existence when the glare of publicity fades. It is then, in the dark bowels of the airline that credibility turns to inability, aptitude to ineptitude, efficiency to inefficiency, credible to incredible.

I had sent a brand new, red

Samsonite Oyster suitcase, weighing 23 kilos on the day of my departure from Heathrow and, on the assurance that it would arrive two or three days later. I went to the cargo terminal in Kuwait Airport. I was disappointed to learn upon my arrival at 8 am that the computer could not locate my luggage but after a plethora of phone calls by staff members I was directed to customs after paying a KD1.750 handling charge. From there I made my way to the location office where the first in a long line of papers was stamped. A little later my suitcase appeared but to my horror it had been scrawled upon in three places in thick black felt-tipped pen. My suit case was searched and returned to the warehouse while I was sent back to complete formalities in the customs clearing office. The officer took my papers and disappeared to have my "manifest" drawn up. He returned about 20 minutes later and informed me that it would be a half hour before this procedure would be finalised. # Vatican acts as a player in peace efforts in Africa

By Dennis Redmont

VATICAN CITY, (AP): Pope John Paul II's 10-day swing through Africa has paradoxically served to reduce the stigma of any future visit to South Africa and firmly established the Vatican as a player in peace efforts in the region.

The Pope's unscheduled stop in Johannesburg, a hostage drama in Lesotho, and diplomacy aimed at nudging Mozambique and South Africa away from confrontation distinctly marked the fourth papal trip to the continent.

"You could say it was an act of grace," said Vatican Secretary of State Agostino Casarol in pondering the consequences of a landing, forced by bad weather, in South Africa. It is the very country whose excoriated on the first stop, Zim-

Prior to the Pope's visit to Zimbabwe, Botswana, Lesotho, Swaziland and Mozambique, some bishops and African leaders urged John Paul to strike the nation of apartheid from any future travel. But by the time the Pope landed in Rome on Monday night, few voices against a future stopover had been raised.

Soft Even the Rev. Allan Boesak, the militant Protestant leader who attended a papal ecumenical meeting in Maputo, stopped short of discouraging a trip, des-pite his charges the Pope had been too soft on the white minority government.

Vatican prelates confirmed the Pope would fly to Madagascar and Tanzania in 1989, and that he was considering a visit to rigidly Marxist Angola. The Vatican traditionally groups countries of the same region on each trip, making the prospect of a South Africa visit a distinct possibility.

In his unscheduled visit, the Pope sipped tea with South African Foreign Minister Pik Botha, rode 300 kms (190 miles) in a government sedan protected by security agents, and visited people injured in the storming of a hijacked bus, during which six people were killed by South African commandos

The Pope, who has rarely held racial policies the Pope his foreign tours, also spoke out. • He lectured the 20-year-old King of Swaziland and his low wives about polygamy.

 He repeatedly urged Mozambique's Marxist government, overwhelmed by civil war and the prospect of 6 million on the edge of famine, to negotiate with the rebels. John Paul offered the church's help, if needed.

The issue of negotiations was all the more delicate since President Joaquim Chissano's government until recently held confiscated church property.

Meanwhile, the rebel Mozambique Resistance Movement -which roams the countryside sought to cast itself to the Vatican and the world as anticommunist and favouring religious freedom. John Paul set his own agenda in some of the most vivid specches of any papal trip, exclaiming: "Yes, my beloved brothers, I have felt the heart of this country bleed .... I am taking home images of suffering ... the worried gaze of many children, the look of uncertainty of so many youths, the tired eyes of so many adults and the sad look of the In very specific terms, he said he approved of efforts by his local bishops to encourage talks between the government and the rebels. The Roman Catholic spiritual leader also said he backed a government amnesty, which has led 2,000 rebels to lay down arms.

In the evenings, Pran likes to elax in the drawing room of his Khar bungalow and watch TV in bits with a remote control and of course a glass in hand.

At such times, he talks nostalgically about the years gone by the hectic present, and the uncertain future. We were fortunate to catch him in one such mood and a glimpse of how a real sincere actor used to work, when films were made as they should be made.

Pran was born in Delhi and spent his early years in Lahore (now in Pakistan) but his links with India were strong and sentimental. Talking of his finest memories, he said: "I migrated to India on 14th August 1947, just one day before India's Independence and on the day of partition. Luckily, my family did not have to go through the violence which other refugees suffered. On reaching Bombay, we first stayed at the Taj Mahal.

Hotel, where the tariff with room service was Rs. 55 only. Then we rented a house.'

Pran had already a film background from his Lahore days. When he was on the sets learning photography, producer Wali Mohd. Wali, forced him to join the cast as a villain in the Punjabi Yamla Jatt which proved a big hit. He then had a walk-on role in Dalsukh Pan-choli's Hindi film Khazanchi and was soon made the young hero opposite Noorjehan in Khandaan directed by Shaukat Hussain Rizvi. This film was very popular in Bombay and all over India. Thus Pran's face was already known to audiences when he arrived in Bombay. After a little struggle he got a role in Bombay Talkies' Ziddi whereafter S.M. Yusuf cast him as a young helpful hero in the family drama Grihasthi which ran for 50 weeks.

Villain

But Pran was cut out to be more of a villain than a hero. We reminded him that even e giving a romantic look to his heroine Sharda he would unconsciously bring an evil expression on his face. This " e him recall memories: "Yes, I agree with you." It was growing into a habit. I would narrow one eye

Pran: his last ambition is to die with make-up on and look like the devil's disciple. That's why when Raj Kapoor optimistically gave me the role of the good doctor in Ash he had problems. During every take, Raj Sahab would look sharply into my eyes and cut it if he had any doubts. My other weakness was that I was very comfortable singing songs before the camera.' But then we asked what about the highly popular songs in Upkaar, Dharma, Zanjeer, Victoria 203 etc? Said Pran: "In the last few years, my songs are tale. I have to react to a situation or provide a thread to tie up the story. So it's okay. But I get real pleasure out of delivering dialogues in different ways. That's why it's lucky that I get a variety of characters belonging to different provinces. For example in Adhikar I had to play a typical Bhopali, speaking that peculiar Hindi dialect. I sat down with writer Javed for ten days and picked up everything, like the effeminate tone of their conversation.

Interesting

Talking of R.K. again, his face was clouded with memories: "I did many films for his studio, the best being Bobby and Jis Desh Mein. He was a very dear friend. We would sit in his cottage drinking till late hours. After that, he would never allow me to drive home. His car would drop me and my car was sent over the next morning. Of course, as I grew older I have controlled my drinking. One day I suddenly suffered a hang-over and felt weakness. Since then, I ordered a peg-measure to be kept in my bar for my daily quota. We were tape-recording

Pran with Rubina, Seema, Chunky and Neelam in 'Paap Ki Duniya.'

Pran's interesting talks as well as dialogue demonstration. But everytime we would give him the mike, he would become alert and serious, as if he was shooting or dubbing. That is the sign of the true veteran artiste. Pranappreciated our com-pliments and added: "In our old days, everyone was disci-plined and regular. But the present-day stars have become famous for coming late. Yet, I can't help being exactly on time. So the producers who phone other stars to ask whether they have started from home, have to phone me and request me not to start. It may sound strange but true."

His other principles are that he never cancels a given date and while shooting a film he remains on the sets even after his take, instead of going away Mein. So the mannerism he to the make-up room. Pran loves sports, and is fond of keeping big dogs. Outside his bungalow gate a sign warns guests "Beware of dogs." His hounds surround you in the compound and you don't dare to come out of your vehicle till they are cleared. He also loves to be involved in social activities, like collecting relief funds, organising the Punjabi new year nite Baisakhi da mela

Duniya and there are more to He talks of the personal touches that he often gives to his characters: "I was playing a dacoit cum lover in Jis Desh work. He has acted in nearly 350 films till the recent Paap Ki adopted was to keep touching his collar near the neck with two fingers. After all the character knew he was bound to be hanged some day."

Regarding his flops he said: 'After so many years some failures may not affect my career. But they affect me, my beart. I feel dead. I make frantic inquiries, like one who has four children but is equally worried over the birth of the fifth. Once in acting, always in acting. The craving is worse than drug addiction.

"I never wanted to join films at first. There was no compulsion as I was from a rich family. But I was practically forced to become an actor. Once in it, I began to love it, could not think of anything else. And my last ambition is to die with make-up

Of course, there are humans and funny looking spacemen and enthralling confrontation between good and evil, all of which are bound to keep children as well as adults rivetted.

But what you'll miss on screen is the behind the scene activity, an adventure in itself. Serial "Making the serial was a voyage into the unknown," says Ashok Talwar, who, along with Bizeth Banerjee, has masterminded the daring project. Only it turned out to be more daring than expected.

"We had the inconceivable task of translating sophisticated scientific concepts into everyday language. And we had to avoid falling into the trap of using high flown Hindi." To tackle this problem, the director-writers have included an introduction-cumexplanation to every episode. And resorted to a mixture of Hindi and English, even in ordinary situations. Technical terms are at a minimum of

The result is hybrid, but effective — so you'll end up hearing sentences like "Ab to yeh fail ho gaya," when the complex controls of the space outpost refuse to function.

Make-up, special effects, music, have all taken a lot of extra effort on the director's part, and seven episodes of the serial are now ready. Mandi House was to have scheduled the serial for July, but is proba-bly still shell-shocked by its possibilities, and by the producer's daring. But approval is inevitable, if quality has its say. So watch out folks - D. Day is near, soon, soon it will be time for the blast off!

CALCIUM USEFUL IN FIGHTING OSTEOPOROSIS

QUESTION: Is calcium really any use in fighting osteoporosis?

FAMILY DOCTOR
By DR ALLAN BRUCKHEIM

Answer To answer your question perhaps too simply - yes studies have long indicated the usefulness of calcium supplements in the treatment of osteoporosis. But their ability to stop bone loss or help increase bone mass depends a great deal on lifestyle. This means following an adequate and nutritions diet and a regular programme of exercise. Exercise not only affects bone remodeling by stimulating the release of growth hormones, but exercisers burn more calories, take in more nutrients and absorb more calcium. The reverse is true of habitual inactivity, which in itself leads to a loss of bone which no amount of added calcium can prevent. As you may already know, osteoporosis is a loss of bone tissue that leaves the bones porous, brittle and subject to easy breakage. What you might not know is how difficult it is to predict who will (or will not) develop this symptomless disorder, because the causes are many and not just a natural result of old age. In fact, the first real indication, sometimes the only one, is the presence of an insufficiency fracture - a break in a bone that occurs for no apparent reason. Most frequently these fractures occur at the spine and later in life at the hip, but other skeletal parts can be involved as well. According to the best available estimates, people who have a low bone mineral content are at the greatest risk. This group includes the elderly, diabetics, smokers, alcoholics, patients who have an estrogen deficiency of any cause, those undergoing cortisone therapy, or individuals with a strong family history of osteoporosis. If you fit this profile in any way, your doctor probably will consider taking bone mineral measurements at regular intervals to see how you are getting

The two most promising techniques available to detect low amounts of bone mineral (before irreversible damage occurs) are quantitative computed tomography (QCT) and photon absorptiometry, both of which are X-rays or ultrasound pictures that show bone density. These tests, by measuramount of loss but weak areas where breaks

Should structural changes be severe, your doctor may order a biopsy to rule out a malignancy of the bone marrow, as well as take steps to see if there are any vitamin deficiencies or endocrine, kidney or liver problems which might be causing the bone loss. In circumstances where mineral content is low but within a normal range, changes in lifestyle and a readily usable form of calcium (such as is provided in many calcium supplements) will be part of the recommended course of treatment.

The worst driver (male)

THE world record for the most traffic offences in the shortest period of time is held by a man from Frisco, in Texas, who achieved this feat in the first 20 minutes of car ownership.

Having hitch-hiked to the nearby city of McKinney on 15 October 1966, he bought a 1953 Ford and drove out of the used car showroom at 3:50 pm. At 3:54 he collided with a 1952 Chevrolet driven by a local woman, Mrs Wilma Smith Bailey, at the corner of McKinney and Heard Street.

One minute later he collided again 90 feet south of Virginia Street and Tennessee Street with another Chevrolet, driven by Miss Sally Whitsel of Farmersville.

Feeling more confident now in his new vehicle, he next drove round the courthouse one-way system in the wrong direction. Forty-six feet later he hit a 1963 Ford. It was still only 3:58.

He continued in this vein until 4:15 pm, when he was in deep conversation with Patrolman Richard Buchanan, having just hit a Ford Mustang in Louisiana Street.

In the space of just 20 minutes he had acquired 10 traffic ickets, caused six accidents, hit four cars without stopping and driven on the wrong side of the road four times.

When questioned, this determined motorist, who had not driven for 10 years, said: "They don't drive like they used to."

The least successful gas conversion

SINCE converting his orange Volvo to gas power for reasons of economy, Mr Tony Forward proudly said he had enjoyed two years of trouble-free motoring. In that time he had only once experienced any kind of bother with it.

In the early hours of a morn-ing in 1981 there was a loud explosion which had woken not only him, but also the entire population of Derby Green, a small hamlet in Hampshire. Thinking it might be a thunderbolt, he went outside to find that the blast from his car had destroyed his garage and conservatory, scattered his freezer and its contents over the garden, blown a hole in a neighbour's garage, damaging their car, and left a fence and his own personally modified Volvo in flames. Such was the heat that a

Apart from this one incident Mr Forward experienced no trouble at all.

The least successful fringe show

THE Edinburgh Festival fringe was set alight in 1983 by an outstanding production of Ubu Roi that closed after only 15 minutes of its first and last performance....

Advance publicity whetted the appetite for the first appearance in Britain by an extraordinary West Berlin ensemble (Freie Theateranstalt) with a pig, cockatoos and several parrots who create a visual symphony threatening stillness." The leading actor and direc-tor Hermann van Harten said the production did not have the animals as advertised because no one told him they would have to be put into quarantine. The parrots and cockatoos were dispensable, but the pig was essential because it played the role of Ubu Roi's wife. At the last minute they had borrowed a pig called Rust from the local East Lothian city farm and the play's opening was delayed for five days due to

Great moments in the history of exploration

THREE celebrated explorers were invited to dinner at the Geographical Club in London. Sir Vivian Fuchs had explored Greenland and East Africa and led the Commonwealth Trans-Antarctic Expedition of 1955-58.

Dr John Hemming was director of the Royal Geographical Society and a member of the 1961 Brazilian Expedition. Robin Hanbury-Tension had crossed South America in a small boat and explored the Indonesian islands, Ecuador, Brazil. Venezuela and the mountains of southern Sahara as well as travelling up Africa and down the Amazon in a hovercraft.

They met at the Royal Geographical Society, just a quarter of a mile from their final destination. Within a mere fifteen minutes they were spec-tacularly lost in the back streets of Kensington.

The least successful birdwatcher

IT was the perfect day for fishing. Leaving his farm on the north Kent coast one bright Thursday in August 1981, Mr John Jenkins took his family to the nearby resort of Seasalter.

Thatcher Warns against centralised EEC

BRUGES, Belgium, Sept 21, (AP) British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher yesterday said, Britain was committed to the European Economic Com-munity Bur she warned her EEC-parthers against an excessive concentration of power in the 12-nation trade block nation trade bloc.

"Britain does not dream of an MEN TO SEC. saitemative: to the European Thatcher told the College of Europe, a 39-year-old Hastistute for post-graduates specialising in European law. "Our destiny is in Europe, as part of the Community." But to put power "at the centre of a European conglomerate would be highly damaging and would jeopardise the objectives we seek to achieve," she added.

Thatcher said she wanted to see EEC nations "work more. closely on the things we can do better together than alone.

"But working more together does not require power.

to be centralised in Brussels or decisions to be taken by an appointed bureaucracy."

She rejected the notion of a "United States of Europe," saying the EEC must be a union of independent nations, "each with its own customs, traditions and identity." Role

She said she has not cut the role of the state in Britain to see it 'reimposed at a European level, with a European super-state: exercising a new dominance from Brussels."

She is currently the most vocal opponent; of proposals to barmonise sales taxes in the EEC by 1992 when the EEC plans to establish a single European market, and she opposes a European Central Bank.

Bonn to cut rates on development aid loans

BONN, Sept 21, (Reuter): West Germany has decided to make its development aid loans cheaper for a number of Third World countries, government sources smill today.

A cabinet decision was taken

The sources said Bonn would grant all its development aid loans at conditions set by the International Development Association, a soft-loan affiliate of the World Bank. Most German loans are already made on IDA conditions.

Credits

Development aid loans are for specific development projects. The IDA offers credits at a fixed. interest rate of 0.75 per cent, with a 10-year grace period and a maturity of 40 years.

West Germany now offers some credits at rates above one per cent and some borrowing costs are as high as six per cent.

The government has a programme to waive the debts of the poorest nations, mostly in sub-Saharan Africa. The state of the s

President promises own reform plan

Mubarak flays IMF

CAIRO, Sept 21, (Reuter): President Hosni Mubarak criticised the International Monetary Fund (IMF) yesterday for failing to understand Egypt's economic problems and said he would implement his own reform

"The IMF knows our problems exactly but does not want to understand them," Mubarak told a meeting of agricultural specialists.
"We will not accept a reform plan imposed on us from outside furt will carry out our own plan, taking domestic conditions into consideration," Mubarak said.

By the end of June, Egypt had rescheduled payments of more than $6 billion on its $43-billion foreign debt. It is still trying to reschedule at least $5 billion in debts due between last July and the end of next ear, but needs a new accord with the IMF to show its creditors. The IMF wants Egypt to slash its: five-billion-pound ($2.2-billion) budget deficit, increase doubleted interest rates and raise the prices of state subsidised fuel Prices Mubarak said he wanted to increase prices gradually, apparently to avoid a repetition of the street riets that met food price hikes in January 1977.

The IMF plan aims at killing the Egyptian citizen and is impossible to implement,"-he said. The IMF wants to cancel subsidies at one go while we intend to do it gradually."

Mubarak leaves on Thursday for Belgrade, London, Paris and Bonn where he will seek support for his attempts to tackle Egypt's economic problems. He said his talks with European leaders would focus on the Middle East, the Gulf and bilateral economic co-operation. Mubarak last week attacked the IMF as a "quack doctor" which prescribed "a huge dose of medicine in one go instead of a daily pill."

Meanwhile, a senior US Treasury official said yesterday, support is growing within the IMF for a plan to help countries in arrears with the fund to clear their overdue obligations.

Eliminating the arrears, which now exceed $2.5 billion, would make the countries involved eligible for new loans from the fund and other international lending agencies.

If they are not tackled, the arrears could weaken the fund's financial position and the ability to deal with the debt crisis, the US official, briefing reporters ahead of the IMF annual meeting in West Berlin later this week,

Furthermore, the arrears were a "fundamental hurdle" that would have to be overcome before the United States could back an increase in the IMF's resources, which are now around $115 billion, he added. Largely because of US opposition, the IMF has already decided to postpone a decision on whether to increase quotas, or subscriptions, until next year. The arrears have increased since 1983 as a number of countries, squeezed between a rising foreign debt burden and falling export revenues, found themselves unable to keep up with their payments. By the end of April, the end of the IMF's financial year, the arrears had climbed to $2.52 billion, up from 1.54 billion a

Nine countries were late with payments at the end of April, including Peru, Sudan and Zambia, according to the fund's annual report, published last

A few of them had allowed their arrears to accumulate to such an extent that "strong and determined efforts on their part, together with extraordinary support from the international community, will be necessary to clear the arrears and remain current in the future," the report said.

The US official said the IMF's policy-making interim committee, in exploring ways to tackle the late payments, would be working on three principles.

Payments

First, the countries in arrears would have to be prepared to undertake the genuine economic reforms required to qualify for an IMF loan programme, the official said. Second, once a country was making the necessary policy adjustments, donor govern-ments would provide bilateral aid so it could clear its arrears.

American consumer prices rise 0.4pc

WASHINGTON, Sept 21, (AP): Higher costs for food, shelter and gasoline sent US consumer prices up 0.4 per cent in August, the government said today, as the effects of the drought in the farm belt began to ease. The August increase, equivalent to an annual inflation rate of 5.2 per cent, was the same as in July. Higher rents and gasoline prices in large part replaced food as the sharpest spurs to higher

Food and beverage prices were up 0.5 per cent last month, compared with 0.6 per cent and 0.9

per cent gains in June and July, respectively. Shelter costs, reflecting higher rates for hotel and motel rooms. were up 0.6 per cent, the steepest gain in seven months.

Jumped Energy prices jumped 0.9 per cent on a 3.0 per cent boost in gasoline prices, their sharpest gain in a year. The Labour Department said, however, that gasoline prices were still slightly below the level of August 1987 and were 26 per cent below their peak of March 1981.

The higher gasoline prices offset decreases for all household fuels. Heating oil costs were down 0.8 per cent; natural gas prices were off 1.2 per cent; electricity costs slipped 0.2 per cent.

The lower home energy prices somewhat offset 0.4 per cent increases in rents and repair expenses and a 0.5 per cent gain in mortgage costs.

"Increases in the food, shelter and energy components accounted for over four-fifths of the August advance in consumer prices," said the Labour Depart-

Excluding those three areas, which account for two-thirds of the goods and services consumers spend money on, prices rose just 0.2 per cent last month, compared to a 0.3 per cent jump

Climb

Grocery store prices continued to climb, but at a slower pace than in July. Those prices were up 0.8 per cent last month, compared with a 1.4 per cent jump in July. That had been their largest gain in 41 years. "About 90 per cent of the August advance was due to price increases for items that were adversely affected by the drought fruits and vegetables, cereal and bakery products, poultry and eggs," the department said. Fruit and vegetable prices rose 1.3 per cent after being up 2.9 per cent in the preceding month. They have jumped a total of 10.6 per cent over the last year.

Cereal and bakery product prices were up 1.6 per cent reflecting higher prices for wheat, oats and eggs. The August increase was the largest since January 1981. The government's calculation of prices for meats, poultry, fish and eggs rose 0.5 percent as gains of 8.4 per cent for eggs and 2.1 per cent for poultry were partially offset by declines in the costs of beef, pork and seafood.

Restaurant meal prices gained 0.3 per cent while alcoholic beverage prices jumped 0.1 per

"I think most of usare comfortable with the rates where they are at this time," Lawson said at a briefing for journalists alead of the International Monetary Fund annual meeting and a G-meeting in West Berlin this week-

"We are back in the Louvre rates and have been for some time," Lawson said, referring to the G-7's decision to keep the dollar steady. That decision was reached at a meeting at the Louvre palace in France in February 1987. Co-operation

Lawson, the Treasury's top official, said he expected to see a full-hearted realismation of the co-operation we have been pursuing.

Lawson said he did not expect any new inititives at the gather ing of the finance ministers of the United States, Japan, West Germany, France, Great Britain, Italy and Canada.

Lawson said he didn't expect the meetings to be "particularly eventful," primarily because of the upcoming US presidential The dollar-West German mark level is "bang in the Louvre range." Lawson said. The yen was "higher" but "I think that is wholly appropriate given the Japanese economy's performance, he said. The chancellor said he was comfortable with the British pound's level, as well. The G-7 has not specified what its exchange rate targets are. Lawson said exchange rate stability has fostered business confidence around the world. "Fortunately, the world economy has been performing very well indeed," Lawson said, "and it is set to continue to perform

While there have been some concerns about a resurgence in inflation, the countries which needed to tighten their monetary policies have done so, he said.

Commonwealth fund would help ease Third World debt crisis

LIMASSOL, Cyprus, Sept 21, (Reuter): Commonwealth finance ministers are poised to give the go-ahead for a fund with an initial target of $100 million to help ease the debt crisis facing their poorer members.

The proposed fund which would channel private investment into emerging stock markets of the 49-nation association has won broad approval at the ministers' annual talks in Cyprus ahead of this year's IMF/World Bank meetings in West Berlin.

"We hope to be given the goahead to look in detail at how the fund should be set up," said Vince Cable, special adviser at the Commonwealth secretariat and one of the authors of a report
"Mobilising Capital for Development: The Role of Private Flows. Key

The fund, a key element in the Commonwealth's strategy for easing the poorer members' debt crisis, won the strong backing of Cypriot President George Vassiliou in his opening address to the ministers on Tuesday even-

Delegates said it was expected to be endorsed in a communique due to be released at the end of talks on Thursday.

The poorer Commonwealth nations, including Nigeria and India are estimated to owe about $1,100 billion and a year ago urged a new initiative to attract fresh capital. The need for new ideas has become more urgent following a sharp decline in commercial bank lending to the Third World and a warning by the Washington-based Institute of International Finance earlier this month banks no longer had the capacity nor the willingness to meet their share of financing

But Cable told Reuters that soundings with institutional investors had suggested fresh private capital could be attracted into an equity fund mixing various commonwealth stock

"There may have to be a mix between shares in countries where there are large companies and developed exchanges, but the majority would be in emerging markets," he said.

That might mean anchoring some of the portfolio investment in the more developed Singaporean, Indian and Malaysian stock markets.

Cable said however the majority would be in small, underdeveloped markets in Commonwealth countries which would find it difficult to set up their own national funds.

That could mean Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados and Jamaica in the Caribbean, Mauritius, Sri Lanka and Bangladesh in Asia and Kenya, Zimbabwe and Nigeria in Africa.

Contribution

Commonwealth countries are not being asked to make a direct financial contribution and some delegates said industrial country members may even seek assurances that no government investment is made, ensuring a 100 per cent flow of private capital.

We do not want countries putting in development cash and avoiding its use elsewhere," said one delegate from an industrialised nation.

OPEC Fund chief urges growth strategy for Third World

VIENNA, Sept 21, (OPECNA):
Dr Seyvid Abdulai, dissetter seneral of the OPEC Fund for International Development, said yesterday, that instead of concentrating on developing countries debt to the exclusion of all else, there was immediate, need for helping them achieve a memimum rate of economic growth.

helping them achieve a minimum rate of economic growth.

He emphasised that first things should be done first. Developing countries should be enabled to increase production and get their economics going. Once that happened, the debt question would be on its way to being tackled.

being tackled.

He acknowledged that recent moves by the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund had begun to address this problem in a number of affected countries, but cantioned that unless steps were taken to enable these states to resume economic growth and become productive, little success would result.

Abdulai, who leaves for Paris today to attend this week's meetings of OECD's concessional assistance arm, the Development Assistance Committee (DAC), and the co-ordination group formed by a number of development institutions from North and South, made these remarks in an interview with OPECNA.

Moeting The one-day DAC meeting of will be preceded by a meeting of il seco-ordination group which is constituted by six national and two multilateral Arabaid institutions, the OPEC Fund, the Islamic Development Bank and a number of OECD and EEC financial bodies.

Abdulai said the theme of the meetings would be "Human capital and the creation of employment in rural areas in developing countries" and structural adjustment and related

The OPEC Fund chief said the meetings would also exchange information on selected projects, past project experience and future outlook. Abdulai will also attend the 52nd meeting of the inter-governmental "Group of 24" on international monetary affairs in West Berlin on Friday as well as the 39th ministerial meeting of the Inter-Governmental Group of 24 on Saturday.

At the weekend, he will also attend meetings of the heads of multilateral financial institutions and development committee - the joint ministerial body of the board of governors of the World Bank and IMF - on resource transfers to developing

Capability

Responding to a question on heavily-indebted developing countries, Abdulai said this issue had been on the agenda since 1982 and there was no way it could be solved unless the affected countries were given the capability to increase production through fresh flows of concessional assistance and other helpful measures.

"What these countries receive in development funds goes to servicing debts," he said, adding "financing institutions should create growth, which is slowing

He said the World Bank and IMF were now geared in their own ways to help developing countries to grow to service their debt, but unless there were higher resource transfer and major economic incentives, they would get even more heavily in debt.

Many countries like West Germany and France had been talking about "forgiving debts," but the problem would remain unless genuine solutions were found, he Abdulai said developing countries which were indebted should be given the financial resources to produce crops which should find "open markets." However, he pointed out that, on the other hand, in industrialised countries, farmers' produce was being subsidised three times by their gov-

ing in the encycloped and angle high later in the education

IFAD approves $73.5m for agricultural projects

ROME, Sept 21, (Reuter): The International Fund for Agricul ROME, Sept 21, (Renter): 1 us international runs for Agricultural Development (IFAD) said today it had approved loans of $73.5 million for new projects aimed at helping farmers and fishermen in the Third World. More than a third of the money will finance a joint development project between Algeria and Tunisia to halt ecological erosion, while boosting agricultural and animal production, IFAD said in a statement. Algeria will get $14 million and Tunisia 12 million for the project. The UN agency also approved $10.5 million for a project aimed at helping women in the east region of South Yemen. Grinen is to receive a loan of $14.9 million for an agricultural rehabilitation project at Fonta Djallon and Lesotho will get 7.73 million for soil and water conservation programmes. IFAD's executive hoard, which approved the loans, also recommended a programme of work and a budget for 1989 of $302.1 million for its regular programme and 88.4 million for its special Africa project. These will be submitted to the fund's governing council for approval.

Strauss sees need to cut social security, defence

WASHINGTON, Sept 21, (AP): The nation's budget deficit problems will not be solved without reductions in social security and defence spending, a co-chairman of the National Economic Commission said today. Washington Attorney Robert Strauss said the commission, which be heads with former Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis, is not underestimating the formidable challenge facing the group. The commission was created before the following the following the property of the next president to balance the federal bedoct. While Democrat president candidate the federal budget. While Democrat presidential candidate Michael Dukakis has indicated a willingness to listen to the group's recommendations, Republican George Bush has vowed to gnore expected calls for a tax increase. Strauss said that such politically potent government programmes as social security benefits, medicare and other entitlement programmes and defence spending will have to take cuts, since they account for 68 defence spending will have to take cuts, since they account for 68 per cent of federal spending. "We have to go to social security, medicare and entitlements generally and we have to go to defence," Strauss said, saying the commission realised the political firestorm such suggestions will create. "That means you are withholding money from the sick, the elderly and the defence of the nation," he said. Strauss said the group probably will recommend a four-or five-year plan to eliminate the deficit, which is expected to total an estimated $152 billion this year. Strauss said too periority will be given to generaling cuts and only after they said top priority will be given to spending cuts and only after they are exhausted would the commission look at possible tax increases. Strauss made his remarks before a group of economic advisers for both Bush and Dukakis, who have been meeting in a public conference to examine the top economic problems which will face the next president. His comments marked the most detailed discussion yet of where the commission is headed. The 12member panel is searching for a bipartisan plan to attack the member panel is searching for a unpartissic plant to budget deficits, hoping to complete its work by Dec 21 in time to be incorporated in the first budget submitted by the new president. Strauss said he believes it is essential to keep the cou deliberations out of the current presidential debate.

S. Korea hopes for up to $1.5b of sales at trade fairs

SEOUL, South Korea, Sept 21, (AP): Enjoying maximum publicity from the Olympics, South Korea is hoping for up to $1.5 hillion of sales at international trade shows in Seoul this fall. The Korea Trade Promotion Corp. said today the Seoul international trade fair 88 will be held on Oct 20-30 at the Korea Exhibition Centre, with nearly 500 companies, including 181 from 31 foreign countries, displaying products. The state-run Promotion Corporation is sponsoring the fair at the four-storey centre with a combined space of 192,000 square metres close to the main Olympic stadium in the southern sector of the capital. Kotra officials said some 4,000 prospective buyers were expected to visit the fair and buy up to $600 million in export and import contracts. Besides traditional buyers from the Liuited States and Japan, many businessmen from Communist comparies are slated to visit the fair this year, the officials said. South Korea recently began opening trade ties with Hungary, China and other communist countries. The Electronic ladustries Association of Korea said the 9th annual Korea electronic show will be held on Oct 21-26 at the nearby annex exhibition building. Association officials said 475 companies from 18 countries are scheduled to display products in the electronics show, and Korean exhibitors hope about $200 million of experts. about $900 million of exports will result. Hundreds of foreign business executives are in Seoul for the Olympic Games, which end Oct 2. They were invited by Korean businessmen eager to develop stronger business ties. An international furniture fair also is scheduled for the main exhibition centre in early November.

European airlines passenger traffic growth quickens

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept 21 (AF): European airlines registered a 5.2 per ceut increase in passenger traffic in July on their global routes compared with the year-earlier month, according to the Association of European Airlines (AEA). The July result was an improvement on a "poor second quarter," the 21-member AEA said. The AEA said its member airlines carried 8.8 per cent more passengers on European routes in July compared with a year earlier. The number of passengers carried on the North Atlantic rose only 2.9 per cent but this was an improvement on June when there was a fractional decrease on that route. Traffic to the Far East rose 6 per cent, below historical growth trends but to the Far East rose 6 per cent, below historical growth trends but better than in recent mouths, the AEA said. There also was a revival in carryings to Africa, where traffic rose 8.4 per cent in July. For the first seven mouths of 1988, the AEA carried 7.4 per. cent more passengers on global romes compared with the corresponding year-earlier period. The increase included a 10.5 per cent rise in carryings in Europe, The AEA said that the amount o freight carried by its members continued to fluctuate. In July, freight traffic was up 7.3 per cent, the second lowest increase of the year, and up 10.2 per cent for the first seven months of 1988.

Asia's oil market is growing

SINGAPORE, Sept 21, (AP): Asia is fast becoming one of the world's major oil markets, consuming about 11 million harrels daily, the president of Mobil Qil Copp. said today. Oil demand from Japan in the North and India in the West to New Zenland in the South is growing at a rate of 6 per cent a year due to the region's booming economies, Richard F. Tocker told delegates at the Asia-Pacific oil conference. "Overall energy growth in the Asia-Pacific region is expected to continue at high rates into the 1990s. This contrasts with rest of the world in which energy demand has slowed or declined," he said. Growing prosperity an expanding commerce mean more vehicles on the roads, he noted. expanding commerce mean more vehicles on the roads, he noted. Air traffic, commercial transportation, mechanisation of agriculture and household use of liquefied petroleum gas are also increasing. Tucker said. Expansion and modernisation of existing refineries and construction of new ones are under way in Singapore, Malaysia, Indonesia, Thailand,: South Korea, Taiwau, India and China, he said. In contrast, oil refinery in the United States and Frances have been declinian. "I would onese United States and Europe have been declining, "I would guest that crude oil prices will oscillate between $15 to $18 per harrel for the next couple of years," he added. China may have to import oil to meet the needs of its rapidly expanding economy, Tacker said, although "China does have the long-range potential for discovery and development of large petroleum reserves; particularly in the northwest, where geologists believe the largest unexplored sedimentary basin in the world is located."

U.K. STOCKS OFF HIGHS IN LATE PROFIT-TAKING LONDON, SEPT 21, REUTER - EQUITY PRICES WERE OFF THE DAY'S HIGHS IN LATE TRADING AS THE EARLIER SPECULATIVE SURGE PROMPTED BY MINORCO'S HUGE BID FOR CONSOLIDATED GOLD FIELDS RAN INTO

AT 1432 GMT THE FTSE 100 SHARE INDEX WAS 21.8 POINTS UP AT 1,793.9 AFTER A HIGH OF 1,797.9. DEALERS NOTED SOME DEFINITE RESISTANCE TOWARD THE 1,800 LEVEL.

MINORCO'S 1,306P PER SHARE BID, WHICH VALUES MINING FINANCIAL GROUP CONSGOLD AT SOME 2.9 BILLION STG, SPARKED A MAJOR REVALUATION OF RESOURCE STOCKS IN GENERAL AND HELPED REKINDLE INTEREST IN OTHER PERENNIAL BID TARGETS.

HOWEVER, DEALERS SAID THERE WAS A SPECULATIVE WATURE BEHIND MEARLY ALL THE DOUBLE FIGURE RISES AMONG THE LEADING STOCKS. ONE SAID THAT A COUPLE OF WEEKS AGO, INSTITUTIONS WERE PREPARED TO SIT ON THE FENCE WHEN THE FISE WAS AT 1,720. THERE SPECULATION ISN'T GOING TO JUSTIFY BUYING IN AT 1,795," THE DEALER SAID.

DEALERS SAID WALL STREET'S INABILITY TO TO SUSTAIN A MARGINAL OPENING GAIN DESPITE A LOWER THAN EXPECTED 0.4 PCT RISE IN THE U.S. CONSUMER PRICE INDEX, ALSO GAVE THE MARKET PAUSE FOR

London Gold

LONDON, SEPT 21, REUTER - GOLD BULLION PRICES POSTED THE LOWEST CLOSE IN 19 MONTHS, ALTHOUGH THEY MANAGED TO CLIMB BACK ABOVE THE 400 DLRS LEVEL.

GOLD ENDED-AT 401.75/402.25 DLRS PER OUNCE, DOWN 8.25 DLRS FROM YESTERDAY AND THE LOWEST CLOSE SINCE FEBRUARY 20, 1987. DEALERS SAID THE OVERWHELMINGLY BEARISH SENTIMENT IN THE MARKET STEWNED MAINLY FROM INFLATION EXPECTATIONS.

A COMMENT YESTERDAY BY GERMAN BUNDESBANK PRESIDENT KARL OTTO POEHL THAT INFLATION PRESSURES ARE WANING UNDERSCORED THE GENERAL BELIEF THAT RECENT INTEREST RATE RISES WILL CURB UPWARD

London Money Market

LONDON, SEPT 21, REUTER - MONEY MARKET INTEREST RATES HELD A FIRMER BIAS IN LATE TRADING BUT WERE BELOW THE DAY'S PEAK LEVELS. DEALERS SAID STERLING'S STABILITY AFTER A WEAK OPENING HELPED RATES TRIM THEIR EARLIER GAINS.

TRADERS SAID THE MARKET HAD RESUMED ITS CAUTIOUSLY QUIET TONE AFTER YESTERDAY'S FLURRY OF ACTIVITY WHICH SAW FALLS OF AS MUCH AS 1/4 POINT IN RESPONSE TO U.K. MONEY SUPPLY AND BANK LENDING DATA FOR AUGUST WHICH WERE BETTER THAN EXPECTED OVERALL. THEY SAID THE FALLS YESTERDAY WERE OVERDONE, HOWEVER. THE KEY THREE MONTH INTERBANK RATE REACHED A HIGH OF 12-3/16 1/16 PCT BEFORE FALLING BACK TO 12-1/8 12, A NET GAIN OF 1/16 POINT.

Wall Street Market Report

NEW YORK, Sept 21, (Reuter): Wall Street stocks were narrowly mixed after giving up early gains that followed favourable consumer price and housing starts reports. Janney Montgomery Scott analyst Eugene Peroni said, "We have a flat market on a semi-holiday."

Peroni added, "We see some of the August upward market momentum."

fading, with stocks pulling back to a near term trading range of 2060 to 2120 on the Dow, it's a lethargic market with takeover stocks the features. That will!

The Dow 30 was up one at 2088 after rising to 2092. Decliners took a small lead over gaining issues.

MAJOR SECURITIES HOUSE, BROKERS SAID. "INVESTORS ARE SEEING THAT THE MARKET HIT BOTTOM AND THERE HAS NOT BEEN MUCH NEWS ABOUT THE EMPEROR'S HEALTH. HIS CONDITION HASN'T CHANGED," SAID A TRADER AT YAMAICHI SECURITIES. "BUT OVERALL THE MARKET TONE IS STILL A BIT

UNCERTAIN." THE NIKKE! INDEX ROSE 164.08 POINTS, 0.60 PCT, TO

27,712.66. IT PLUNGED 352.42 ON TUESDAY. DECLINING ISSUES OUTPACED ADVANCERS BY 1.7 TO ONE IN MODERATE TURNOVER OF 800 MLN SHARES AGAINST ONE BILLION. COMMUNICATIONS, SECURITIES HOUSE, ELECTRICAL, PULP/PAPER, CREDIT/LEASE, CONSTRUCTION, PRECISION INSTRUMENT, TEXTILE, TRUCKING AND SOME MANUFACTURING ISSUES LED THE DECLINES.

ADVANCES WERE LED BY WAREHOUSE, GAS, BANK, RUBBER, REAL ESTATE, OIL, SERVICE AND NON-FERROUS METAL SHARES.
THE INDEX FELL BY AS MUCH AS 257.18 POINTS TO A LOW OF 27,291.40 JUST BEFORE THE MIDDAY CLOSE. BUT IN THE AFTERHOOM SHARES SLOWLY GAINED GROUND AND A LATE BUYING SURGE PUSHED THE INDEX TO THE DAY'S HIGH JUST BEFORE THE FINISH.

A LATE UPTURN IN THE FUTURES MARKET ALSO HELPED SPUR BUYING IN THE CASH MARKET, BROKERS SAID. THE MARKET HAD HELD TO A LOW NOTE THROUGH MOST OF THE DAY. SOME BROKERS SAID THEY WERE SURPRISED AT ITS EARLY SHARP FALL

AFTER TUESDAY'S PLUNGE AND IN THE FACE OF A LACK OF FRESH THERE WAS LITTLE BUYING IMPETUS FROM INSTITUTIONS, AND SOME SOLD TO REAP PROFITS BEFORE CLOSING THEIR BOOKS FOR THE YEAR ON SEPTEMBER 30. UNCERTAINTY OVER THE HEALTH OF THE EMPEROR AND WHAT WOULD HAPPEN TO THE MARKET IF HE WERE TO PASS AWAY ALSO PROMPTED THE SELLING, BROKERS SAID.

Hong Kong Market Report

HONG KONG, SEPT 21, REUTER - STOCKS CLOSED SLIGHTLY HIGHER AS VOLUME SHRANK DUE TO CONTINUED LACK OF INTEREST, BROKERS

THE HANG SENG INDEX ROSE 8.77 POINTS TO 2,432.00 AND THE BROADER BASED HONG KONG INDEX WAS UP 5.71 TO 1,602.96. TURNOVER TOTALLED 285.20 NLN H.K. DLRS AGAINST 315.09 NLN

BROKERS NOTED SOME BARGAIN-HUNTING BY LOCAL INVESTORS. MOST FOREIGN FUND MANAGERS STAYED ON THE SIDELINES DUE TO CONCERN ABOUT POSSIBLE SHARP FALLS IN TOKYO BECAUSE OF THE HEALTH PROBLEMS OF JAPAN'S EMPEROR HIROHITO.

France to boost Third World aid effort

The المحمد Fung

PARIS, Sept 21, (AP): France intends to step up its aid effort to the Third World in an effort to reach the level prescribed by the United Nations "as soon as possible," Finance Minister Pierre Beregovoy said today.

Addressing finance ministers from 14 African countries that with France constitute the franc zone, Beregovoy said the French government intends to raise the proportion of the nation's gross domestic product devoted to aid to 0.54 per cent from the 1987 level of 0.51 per cent.

He said France's ambition is to achieve the objective of 0.7 per cent set by the United Nations "as soon as possible."

Only Norway, the Neiberlands. Denmark and Sweden surpassed the 0.7 per cent tainet

Because of its historical sphere of influence in Africa, France places itself in a role as a defender of the interests of African counsuch as the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

Beregovoy said that at next week's joint annual meetings of these two bodies in West Berlin. he intends to call for a further easing of the concessional terms at which developing countries borrow from the World Bank.

This is necessary, he said, "in order to increase as much as possible net transfers of resources to intermediary countries." The IMF's recently-created enhanced structural adjustmant facility, the World Bank's special programme and the African Development Fund of the African Development Bank will make available a total of $18 billion for Third World countries over the next three years, he said, including $15 billion for sub-Sanaran African nations.

Oil prices slip

Gold plunges below $400, dollar up

LONDON, Sept 21, (Reuter): The price of gold tumbled to below 400 dollars an ounce in hectic trading today as a continuing slide in oil prices cooled fears of inflation.

Gold plunged more othan $10 to a low of $399.35 an ounce at 0950 GMT. Its lowest since February, 1987.

"Any rallies are being sold into," said a London dealer, Oil prices fell, too, as Brent crude oil from the North Sea slipped 10 cents to sell at $13.50 a barrel for November delivery.

There has definitely been a significant slowdown in investor interest in gold," said one London analyst.

Hope
"Many still believe the market will fall further. In other words. we cannot expect bargain hunting, which seems to be the only hope for a recovery at the moment," a Tokyo dealer said. Gold is traditionally used as a bedge against inflation, but slumping oil prices and doubts that OPEC will be able to do much to stop the slide have sharply cut investor interest in precious metals.

Investors, instead, are moving funds into cash deposits and bonds on which they are paid

An unexpected hid for Britishbased Consolidated Goldfields PLC, which values the mining giant at £2.9 billion ($4.9 billion), sparked the rise.

The company's shares jumped nearly 40 per cent to a high of £15.05 ($25.27) after a holding company partly owned by South African mining giants Anglo-American Corp. and De Beers Consolidated Mines announced

"This is just the tonic the market needed ... many people have been talking about a bid for Cons Gold but I think the timing of it took everyone by surprise." a trader said.

The bid set off speculation that other British firms could be takeover targets.

In Tokyo, the world's largest stock market, the 225-share Nikkei index rose 164.08 points to close at 27,712.66, after having been down 257 points in the morning.

Reaction

It had plunged 352.42 points on Tuesday, in reaction to domestic news agency reports that Emperor Hirohito, 87, was in a critical condition. There is still a lot of uncertainty since no one in the industry has experienced this before and they don't know what will happen," said Mike Morizumi, an analyst with Merrill Lynch

Japan Inc. Sydney's key All-Ordinaries stock index eased 3.8 points to 1,542.9 on selling of gold-related and mining stocks, while Hong Kong's Hang Seng index edged 8.77 points higher to 2.432.00. Frankfurt and Paris shares firmed.

In London share prices rose strongly today, boosted by the announcement of Britain's largest-ever takeover bid.

Before official trading began, Minorco S.A. launched its hostile offer for the 71 per cent of Consolidated Goldfields PLC which it doesn't already own in a cash and stock offer valuing the whole company at £2.9 billion ($4.9 billion), or £13.06 ($21.94) a share.

The Financial Times-Stock Exchange 100-share index finished 24.7 points, or 1.4 per cent, better at 1,796.8.

The 100-share index surged as Several dealers said they thought the index would break the psychologically important 1800 barrier on Thursday, which might boost sentiment.

Volume was relatively strong, as 438.6 million shares changed hands, compared with Tuesday's volume of 309.2 million shares.

The catalyst for the market's jump was Minorco's offer of £19 pounds ($31.92) in cash and one new Minorco share for every two consolidated Goldfields shares.

Consolidated Goldfields rejected Minorco's advances. saying the offer lacked "financial justification" and was "devoid of commercial logic." The com-pany urged its shareholders not to sell its shares and said the bid would be aggressively resisted. The Financial Times 30-share index was up 13.9 points at 1,443.8 at the close. The Financial Times 500share index rose 10.22 points to close at 1,012.12.

CBK warns on exchange firms

THE Central Bank of Kuwait on Tuesday published a list of registered exchange companies holding business licences from the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, and advised the public to screen any business papers before signing.

Reacting to widespread public complaints of fraud and swindling by exchange companies, the bank statement noted that having a licence and being registered with the Central Bank does not necessarily mean that the exchange companies are lawabiding.

The bank indicated that the public should be very careful when dealing with exchange firms and scrutinise business deals before signing.

Deposits

The statement pointed out that exchange firms are licensed to buy and sell foreign currencies, issue traveller's cheques and drafts and deal in precious metals. They can also collect cheques and drafts drawn from abroad.

The Central Bank, as controller, makes sure that exchange companies do not take deposits. open savings and current accounts, accept securities deposits, and offer letters of

East bloc attitude to IMF mirrors policy on reform

EAST BERLIN, Sept 21. (Reuter): Gone are the days when the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and World Bank needed to worry that the East bloc would simply brand them as imperialist tools.

"Most people think it would be very nice to join the World Bank without joining the fund." he said. The IMF attaches strings to its credit and monitors compliance, whereas the bank gives loans for specific projects.

Opinions

Western diplomats in East Berlin said opinions on the IMF and World Bank largely mirrored East bloc countries approach to reform and their level of success. At one end of the spectrum stands Hungary, whose radical economic restructuring to overcome the highest per capita debt in Eastern Europe strikes a chord with the IMF.

US business expanding, export growth slows

While economists do not expect the country's export boom to collapse, they said it may be tapering off.

"The slower export growth might mean that we're struggling a little bit to maintain our export momentum, but no one is worrying about that at this point," said Donald Ratajczak, economic forecasting director at Georgia State University. Last week, the department said in its monthly trade report that US exports in July fell 8.9 per cent from June. Economists also said the business spending boom is likely to continue as overburdened factories buy new equipment to expand their production capacity.

They noted that the downward revision in business spending was entirely in construction of new plants. Spending on new equipment rose at a 19.2 per cent rate instead of 17.9 per cent.

A key factor retarding economic growth this year is the farm belt drought. Without droughtrelated crop losses, second quarter GNP would have risen 3.9 per cent; the department said.... Economists also expect the

Tuesday's report was the final revision to second quarter GNP and economists now are focusing on the economy's performance in the current July-September quarter, the first estimate of which will be issued on October

Dear Junior Readers

How many of you have already started giving some thought to your tuture careers? Too many people tend to drift through life without really planning, or even knowing, what they want to do. Some of them are lucky to find jobs which make them happy, but a lot spend many years just plodding on from day to day feeling bored and fed-up with jobs that are not really right for them.

Do not fool yourself into thinking that because the start of your working life is still some way off you can just sit back and wait until you finish school before deciding on a career. You should start planning as soon as possible so that you can choose the right subjects for the kind of career you are interested in.

But, a final note: be realistic. For example, there is not much hope of ever becoming a doctor, even if it is your biggest dream, if you are absolutely useless at science subjects! So, build your plans around what you are good at. Auntie Jayne

By Alison Uttley

WHITE-BEARDED ancient man walked over the hills and wide valleys of the world. On his back he carried a sack which moved uneasily as if something were trying to escape from it, but he-settled it between his shoulders and plodded along unwearied, with even strides, and unvarying pace, taking no account of the lands through which he went.

He was Father Time, travelling for ever, and the sack he bore was filled with To-morrows, all struggling and shuffling to get

Each night, at twelve o'clock, he opened the bag and out flew a To-morrow, just one, with its wings of blue, and its shining feathers rosy with hope. All the rest were kept back by Time's strong hands and pushed deep in the sack.

Down flew the Tomorrow, beating its lovely feathers, but as it touched the earth off fell its blue wings and it changed to an ordinary white bird which could not fly. It had become a To-day. Every one knows that Today isn't as wonderful as Tomorrow, for To-days can be held in one's hands, accepted, despised, scorned, but To-morrow is full of mystery and beauty. It holds fortune and happiness. It is desired by all the world. Even those with little hope sigh, "To-morrow may bring a change. Tomorrow life will be different."

Everybody tried to catch the To-morrow before it fell to the ground, so that they could peer under those blue wings and rosy feathers, to see what the future brought for them. Some To-morrows bore Happiness and Love under their wings, others carried Grief and Poverty, but all was hidden until To-day came.

The bird of time

The people thought if they knew beforehand what the To-morrow carried they could prepare for it. So they put bird-lime on the trees where the Tomorrows might alight as they flew from Father Time's bag, and they hun-ted the birds with great nets, seeking to capture one before he changed his plumage. Yet although they tried every device, the birds escaped them and flew to the ground as Todays.

At last, after many experiments and failures, a Philosopher caught a Tomorrow. He made a web of dreams and wove it tightly into a net. This he spread in the air, and behold! a Tomorrow fluttering down was caught! He took it home, struggling, and fluttering its blue wings and rosy feathers, but it could not get out of the closely woven meshes. He suspended the net from the ceiling of his room, and watched the bird. Its wings were dazzling with promises, each one of a deep-blue colour, and as the bird shook its feathers the promises sprayed the air. Each wing had twelve long pinions, and they were Tomorrow's hours. Every feather in the pinion was To-morrow's minutes. The beauty of the unknown shone from the downy breast.

The wise man thought that if he could keep the To-morrow imprisoned he would always know the future. Perhaps the bird would die, or change, but he could catch another in his magic net.

He took out a note-book and a tape-measure, and measured the pretty creature. He wrote down a description of the changing iridescent colours, as the minutes and hours went by, and he wrote too the promises he could see for every minute of time the next day. All day he wrote, setting down everything that would happen on the morrow. At midnight he waited, for then Father Time would set free another To-morrow, a new bird. He watched to see if his own bird would become a To-day, white as snow. No, its wings sparkled with fresh promises, it was still To-morrow, lovely To-morrow, waiting in glittering beauty in the net. The wise man clapped his hands with joy, and the To-morrow beat its wings and tried to escape with little cries of impatience, but the net held firmly. The next day's events could be read, To-morrow would always be known. The wise man now knew everything that would happen. He could foretell the future and his forecasts would never fail. He knew what would happen in the King's palace, and in the beggar's garret; he knew who would die, and who would be born. Happiness and misery, and all the events of life were open to him, to tell the world. He would be the most powerful of all men --- yet he kept his secret a little longer. Each day he feverishly wrote the future happenings, and always the words were true, so that he knew all things. But as he looked at the changing feathers of the beautiful bird, he felt sad. He wanted to warn people of their fate. If he told the sorrows of Tomorrow, he would spoil To-day, he would break even the white bird, Today; whilst if he spoke of the happiness To-morrow would bring, he would lessen the joy of unexpected-

He decided to invite people to see his wonderful bird, to judge for themselves whether they would know all things. So he opened his doors and welcomed any who wished to view a beautiful Tomorrow.

People came crowding in, rich and poor, all eager to see To-morrow. They pressed round the exquisite shy bird, which flew gently to and fro in the net of dreams, never resting its feet, with no perch or branch, its feathers gleaming like a changing rainbow. As they read the future in the moving wings of To-morrow, their cries of excitement grew louder, they pushed and struggled to get nearer. Some wept, others groaned, whilst many laughed wildly and tried to seize the bird with upthrust greedy hands. eager for more news. The bird flew out of their reach, and the wise man came back to keep it from death at their hands. Out of doors he sent the crowd, and they streamed down the roads to their homes, shouting, wildeyed, frightened, for only a few were strong enough to bear either the good or the evil in store for them.

The wise man locked his doors and returned sadly to the room where the bluewinged To-morrow fluttered slowly in the net of dreams. There, standing underneath it, with a hand thrust through the meshes of the net, was a little boy who had been left behind.

As the child stroked the soft plumage, and spoke with endearing words to the lovely creature, the bird stretched its wings to their utmost, and broke the net. It flew down to the ground, and the wise man never attempted to catch it, but watched intently to see the blue wings fall, and the feathers change. To his surprise it remained the same radiant colour. It was a bird of To-day, with wings of blue and feathers rosy with hope. "There are no Tomorrows for a child," said the philosopher, thoughtfully, as he watched the bird preen itself whilst the boy kneeled down and stroked its wings. "To-day is the most perfect time and To-morrow is unknown

"Keep it," said he to the eager boy. "It is yours for ever.

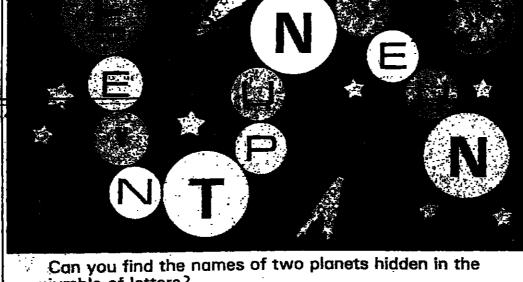

and undesired."

He unlocked the doors and threw them wide open. The child walked out of the house with the bird in his arms, a lovely To-day, a beautiful bird which never changed till the boy grew to be a man. Then it fluttered its blue wings and darted up into the sky to find its master, Father Time. But the young man sat down at his desk and wrote a poem about it.

WEIPING WANG made history yesterday night when he became the first boxer from the Republic of China to appear in the Olympics. It was a respectable debut, too. The 21-year-old Wang, who has been boxing only since 1986, lasted three rounds with European champion Andreas Tews of East Germany, losing a 5-0 decision.

Soviet women gymnasts triumph

SEOUL, South Korea, Sept 21, (AP): Elena Shushunova won the battle of the perfect 10s to lead the Soviet women's gymnastic team to a gold medal at the Seoul Games today, while the Olympic swimming, like a magic fountain, again transformed obscurity into instant fame.

Taking Soviet revenge for a loss to Romania at last year's world championships, Shushunova scored three 10s to two perfect scores by her Romanian rival Daniela Silivas, whose team won the silver medal.

Earlier, Surinam's shy and unsung Anthony Nesty outswam the world's elite today to win the first goldmedal ever for his small South American country. Derby Swimming competition today also produced a cascade of Olympic and world records, two gold medals for East Germany and one gold each for the United States and Hungary.

A Bulgarian weightlifter, meanwhile, broke three world records in winning his country's fourth gold medal of the Games.

The Soviet Union jumped far into the lead in the Seoul medals derby with seven golds and 18 medals overall. East Germany was second with 11 medals overall, followed by Bulgaria and the United States with nine

The Soviet women gymnasts piled up 395.475 points. The Romanians kept up the pressure until the last moment and ended the evening with 394.125 points. East Germany edged out the

A half-point penalty in the compulsories cost the Americans the bronze. The US team had been faulted for having an alternate on the floor during one of the preliminary exercises.

Bulgaria's Angel Guenchev broke the three world records in the 67.5-kilogramme weightlifting class division, bettering the old marks in the snatch, clean and jerk and in the total of 362.5 kilos in two lifts.

Two days after Australia's unheralded Duncan Armstrong upset the biggest names in swimming, the 20-year-old Nesty zipped past America's vaunted Matt Biondi just centimetres from the wall to win the men's 100-metre butterfly by one-hundredths of a second.

Biondi, who had to settle for the silver medal, rebounded in the men's 4x200 freestyle relay by anchoring the US team to a gold medal in the world record time of 7 minutes, 12.51 seconds ahead of the East and West German teams. The American star thus became the first triple medal winner of the Games, adding today's gold and silver to the bronze he captured in Monday's 200-metre freestyle won by Armstrong.

Nesty's was the first of 13 gold medals to be contested on the fifth day of the Seoul Olympics. They included five in swimming, three in Greco-Roman wrestling and a big one in the women's team gymnastics. In all, three world records and

Group B game against Iraq, Aouita holds clear lead in psychological battle

SEOUL, Sept 21, (Reuter): A pyschological battle being waged among Olympic track and field stars intensified today with Morocco's Said Aouita holding a clear lead just two days before the start of the athletics programme.

Aouita, a past master of the provocative quote, hinted this week that he was considering defending his Olympic 5,000 metres title as well as attempting the first 800-1,500 metres double since 1964.

Reports that Aouita might be contemplating a triple gold bid spread quickly through the ath-letes village with initial reaction from his rivals veering between incredulity and apprehension.

Estimated

The Olympic 5,000 metres final starts just 20 minutes after the finish of the 1,500 on October and Moroccan coach Aziz Daouda said he had estimated Aouita would have eight minutes to get ready for the 5,000.
Aouita's great rival, Steve scoff at Aouita today. "I don't think anybody in their right mind could take him seriously," said Cram. "My guess is that he's just having a whelm the US in their opening Group A match but goalkeeper Donna Lee frustrated the vaunted Dutch corner machine until Helen van der Ben scored from their seventh corner in the 29th

Gambit wins Ladies Helm Race

KOSA continued their pre-September events on Friday with their annual Ladies Helm Race.

Gayle Barro who along with husband Lino, have just bought Gambit, put their game together with the existing Gambit crew and won the race by two minutes from Shamaal.

The wind was blowing about 16 knots from the north-west at the start of the Olympic Course Race and most of the 8 competing yachts had acceptable starts for so early in the season.

Danat had an unlucky break on her way out to the wing mark when she had two heavy broaches which gave both Gambit and Lemons a significant advan-

Shamaal, meanwhile, capitalised on her ability to fly a spinnaker on a shy reach with as many of her 10 crew on the weather rail as she could accommodate.

Speed

The fetch to the leeward mark suited both eliminators and it was noticeable that Lemons continued to show her potential with impressive boat speed by giving Gambit a hard time. On the second beat and penultimate leg. Gambit chose the favoured left hand side of the course and gained sufficient time on her rivals to secure her win.

The Beryl Braithwate Bowl was presented by the KOSA Commodore to a delighted Barro. Several yachts then took advantage of the rest of the day by taking more novices out cruising in the fresh breeze. Good Kompany unfortunately broke her mast and has had to withdraw from KOSA events for several weeks.

KOSA are still looking for interested people to sail with them. For details phone 5326145. KOSA continue their events tomorrow with a fun persuit race off Shaab starting at 1100 (1000 briefing).

Agassi crushes Saceanu

(Reuter): Teenagers Andre Agassi and Michael Chang, two of the most exciting talents on the US tennis scene, provided showpiece victories in the first round of the $415,000 Los Angeles Grand Prix yesterday.

Top seeded Agassi, 18, despatched unseeded West German Christian Saceanu 6-2 6-2 in 57 minutes, while Chang, 16, ousted fellow American Marcel Freeman 7-66-4.

Bewilder

Agassi, ranked four in the world, unleashed a series of lightening forehands to pass and bewilder the serve-volleying Saceanu, ranked 68 and a protege of Boris Becker's former coach, Gunther Bosch.

Saceanu appeared unnerved by the barrage of groundstrokes and double-faulted twice in the eighth game before dropping the opening set.

With the third set knotted 2-2, Curren got the pivotal service break in the fifth, then went on to win the two hour, five minute match.

"I had trouble with my serve today," Curren said. "I had just come from playing an exhibition on clay over the weekend and I wasn't quite sharp enough today on the hard courts."

Pate, the defending champion and fifth seed, made short work of Lundgren, who won their first meeting last year.

Saleem and Asad shine for Prince

PRINCE Cricket Club beat Hilti Cricket Club by 32 runs in a Brud Trophy match, organised by the Gulf Cricket League, at the GCL ground earlier this week.

Prince batted first, opening their innings through Mujahid Butt and Asad Malik who put on 35 runs for the first wicket before the former was out for 17. Asad also went back to the pavilion soon, after scoring 12, but Mohammed Saleem thrashed all the Hilti bowlers on his way to 75. Difficult Saleem hammered eight fours as Prince scored 149 for the loss of three wickets in their 26 allotted overs. Shahid remained unbeaten on 22. For Hilti Fakhari took two wickets while Abuzar got one.

Hilti found the going difficult from the start and lost their first wicket with only four runs on the board. Abuzar hit 48 and Khozama 29 but Hilti were only able to score 117 for the loss of all their wickets.

Asad was the main wickettaker for Prince with five wickets for 18 runs. Aslam and Shahid took two wickets

Provide support to clubs, Premier orders authorities

HH the Crown Prince and Premier Sheikh Saad Al Abdullah has issued a directive to the authorities concerned to meet all the financial needs of the Kuwaiti sports clubs.

Commenting on the directive, assistant undersecretary at the Ministry of Social Affairs and Labour Abdel Rahman Al Mazroui said Sheikh Saad would personally finance the cost of all urgent requirements, while the major long-term needs would be referred to the parties concerned. The ministry, headed by Sheikh Nasser Mohammed Al Ahmed, has assigned a team tosurvey the needs of the sports clubs in implementation of Sheikh Saad's directives.

The Crown Prince's initiative falls in line with his constant support for the development of the sports movement and aims at bringing out the best in the Kuwaiti youth in all sports activities.
